Charles A. LeMoine is the chairman of the Pro Bono Committee and has served on the committee since 2004. For over 20 years, Mr. LeMoine has been a trial lawyer who has concentrated his practice in litigation. Clients quoted in Best Law Firms 2018 note that he is "tenacious, brilliant and indefatigable on behalf of his clients."

In the professional liability area, Mr. LeMoine has represented hospitals, medical groups, physicians, architects and engineers in a wide variety of litigation and business related matters.

In the products liability area, Mr. LeMoine has represented manufacturers, dealers and distributors of manufacturing equipment, safety equipment, electrical components, construction equipment, material handling equipment and vehicles.

In the area of school liability, Mr. LeMoine has represented hundreds of school districts and their professional staffs in liability claims ranging from student fights, school bus accidents, sexual abuse, discrimination, student athletics, property damage, premises liability, construction defects, contracts and insurance.

In the area of railroad liability, Mr. LeMoine has represented commuter railroads on both passenger claims and employee claims under the FELA.

In the area of business litigation, Mr. LeMoine has represented product manufacturers, developers, contractors, banks, title companies, computer companies, real estate brokers, demolition companies, property owners and insurance companies in a wide variety of contractual disputes.

Experience

Since joining the Firm in 1987, Mr. LeMoine has handled a wide array of civil litigation-related matters from the trial court level through appeal. He has tried a number of cases at the federal and state levels. He has also argued cases before both the Illinois Appellate Court and the Seventh Circuit Court of Appeals.

Mr. LeMoine has been a certified arbitrator since 1990. Mr. LeMoine has also been a featured speaker and author on various topics including violence in the workplace, construction disputes and mechanics liens, risk management techniques, railroad litigation, products liability and professional litigation.

Significant Decisions

- Marshall v. Evanston Skokie School District 65, 1-13-1654 (March, 2015) Affirmed dismissal of all counts finding plaintiff failed to state a cause of action against the district where student committed suicide inside school by hanging himself on the door of the boy's bathroom.
- Sheetz v. Barrington School Dist. 220, et al, 14-1732 (7th Cir., 2015) Affirmed the dismissal of all claims against the district and its personnel based on Rooker-Feldman doctrine which raised issue relating to custody issues and a prior divorce involving plaintiff's parents dating back to 2005.
- Leja v. Community School District 300, 2-12-0156 (Nov. 2012) Affirmed dismissal of all counts finding no evidence of prior notice of a defective condition involving a volleyball net crank that struck a student in the face.
- Vilardo v. Barrington Community School District 220, 2-10-0045 (Dec. 2010). Affirmed summary judgment finding no evidence that the school district had prior notice of a defective condition involving a batting cage "L" screen.
