Post Judgment Legal Remedies: The Beginning of the End (of Collection on your Judgment)

December 11, 2019

Companies need their judgments enforced more than ever for their businesses to be viable. Most of the time obtaining a judgment in a lawsuit is the easiest part of the debt collection process. Once a judgment is granted, it is left in the creditor's hands to take action on the judgment and enforce the collection due. However, a lot of times, this is easier said than done and creditors face a difficult time collecting those unpaid debts. Join us for a complimentary webinar where we will discuss a practical guide, tips, and legal strategies to enforcing judgments by looking at post-judgment proceedings and ancillary litigation needed to recover assets.
