November 14, 2016

Robert Boonin, Detroit and Ann Arbor-based member in Dykema's Labor & Employment Practice Group, was quoted in a post-election article in the Society for Human Resource Management speculating about a reversal of the new Overtime Regulations (reclassifying certain exempt employees as non-exempt) once the next President has been sworn in.

In the story, Boonin points out that the new rule had not been an issue in the Republican Party platform and thus might not be a priority for the new administration.
