A Message to Our Clients and Friends

March 16, 2020

We, like other businesses, are monitoring and reacting to the rapidly evolving reality surrounding the COVID-19 global pandemic. With the health, safety and well-being of our clients and staff of the utmost importance, Dykema is taking additional preventative steps to help protect our business family and the community by following the guidance and recommendations of public health offices and local governments. Beginning Tuesday, March 17, 2020, Dykema will begin operating with attorneys, policy advisors and staff working remotely.

Thanks to the work of our Emergency Preparedness Team, Dykema is ready to continue serving our clients' needs. Your Dykema team will continue to provide the high-quality client service you expect.

To help clients stay ahead of emerging concerns over potential legal complications resulting from the pandemic, Dykema formed a COVID-19 Taskforce and launched The COVID-19 Resource Center. The Resource Center houses all of our COVID-19 legal content so organizations can easily leverage information, stay up-to-date on evolving developments, and better position themselves for success. You can subscribe to our COVID-19 publications here.

As always, Dykema is here for you, and we're ready to help you get through these trying times successfully.
