

News & Insights

Ross Altman Named to Board of Governors of the American College of Construction Lawyers

Appointed for Three-Year Term; Will Help Shape Strategic Direction of Global Organization

February 24, 2014

Ross J. Altman, Chicago-based member of Dykema's Real Estate Practice Group and leader of the Firm's Construction Law practice, has been named to the Board of Governors of the American College of Construction Lawyers (ACCL). By virtue of this appointment, a three-year term, Altman joins the team that provides strategic guidance and leadership to this organization of construction law practitioners, professors and judges. The ACCL is a renowned global institution that includes lawyers from the United States, Canada, Great Britain, Australia and France.

The ACCL publishes the Journal of the American College of Construction Lawyers, a semi-annual compendium of scholarly articles focused on the complex problems associated with the design and construction of our built environment. The ACCL also regularly sponsors industry symposia on the challenges facing global engineering and construction.

Practice Areas

Infrastructure & Project Finance

Real Estate

Real Estate Workouts

Industries

Construction Law