

News & Insights

Ross Altman to Present at the Illinois State Bar Association Introduction to Public Private Partnerships

April 24, 2015

Ross J. Altman, Chicago-based member and leader of Dykema's Construction Law practice, will serve as a featured speaker at the Illinois State Bar Association Introduction to Public Private Partnerships (P3s) LawEd CLE seminar. The seminar is scheduled to take place on Friday, May 1, 2015.

This informative seminar give attendees a chance to learn about the opportunities, benefits and risks involved in the use of public private partnerships. Altman's presentation—The History of P3 Projects—is a comprehensive overview offering a look at the various projects and challenges encountered by governmental entities that have used public private partnerships to fund infrastructure improvements.

There will be 6.25 hours of MCLE credit available for event attendees. For more information, or to register for the event, click here.

Industries

Construction Law